Look westward young Turk....

(1)

Montreal, Canada; 3 March 1905:

Today one of the largest orders for a single species of wild animal arrived for trans-shipment, from Whitehorse. This order, for 5,000 specimens of adult, male members of the species Canis lupus (better known as the timber, or lobo wolf) leave tomorrow by steamer for the Imperial Zoo at Buda-Pesth

Sao Paulo, Brazil; 5 March 1905:

Today a special wildlife order left this port by fast steamer. After 6 months of collection in the interior, the consignment of 25,000 specimens of Desmodus rotundus (familiarily known as the "Vampire Bat") is on the way to the Imperial Zoo, Buda-Pesth, in Austria-Hungary.

New York, USA; 7 March 1905:

The DeFlower Biological Institute today shipped the largest order in the firm's history. Being kept under refrigeration during transport are 5,000 ampules of active rabies virus. These are being shipped to the Buda-Pesth University of Medicine, reportedly for special research on the mechanics of the transmission of this terrible disease.

Trieste, Austria-Hungary; 24 April 1905:

Today, the last Austro-Hungarian port on the Mediterranean fell to the treacherous Turk. With much loss of life by the rear guard, a last shipment, organized under direct Imperial supervision, got out of port before the city fell to the invader. Even tho a special, high speed blockade runner, this ship, the IMS Walpurgis Nacht, was almost intercepted by Turkish naval forces until an out-of-season fog bank rolled in, covering her escape.

Strangely enough, her important cargo, who's safety was bought with much loss of life, was reported to consist entirely of 300 large boxes of earth shipped from the interior.

The Emperor disappeared from the area as soon as the ship's successful escape was reported.

Bitstritz, Austria-Hungary; 27 April 1905 (HELL):

(A direct report by our agent, Johann Bummbeck)

"The Empire is bearing up well under the burden of invasion. There are few complaints and there is almost universal support for the war against the Infidel. I said one inhabitant said to me, 'With Count D., all you needed for security is a little garlic and holy water, and he stays off your back (or neck as the case may be), but if the Turks take over, that's the end of civilization. The smell of garlic I can stand, but the odor of Turkish goats (and soldiers) is just too much to face.'"

Bitstritz, Austria-Hungary; 29 April 1905 (HELL):

(From our agent, Johann Bummbeck)

"War reports continue to be grim, the Imperial forces being pushed back along all fronts. But a bit of hope has been born with scattered reports of a strange malady breaking out among Turkish troops. It is said that numbers of enemy troops on night patrol have been found the next day dead, the cause of death being extreme loss of blood, even tho no obvious wounds were on the bodies. Hope is also being fostered by rumors of new 'secret weapons' being prepared. These stories being aided by the arrival of secret shipments from abroad."

Ulan Bator, Inner Mongolia; 12 November 1905:

The Sultan of Turkey announced that he takes no notice of the threats of the Lord of Outer Mongolia, and that demands to withdraw from Mongolia, etc., are not being considered at this time. However, if pressure is increased by these sons of jackals, Turkish policy will be to invade not only Mongolia, etc., but also Morocco, Monaco, Mexico, and Manchuria. And if that isn't sufficient, Turkish troops will occupy Murmansk, Maritoba, Melbourne, and Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The Turkish people are 100% behind the move! Would you believe 50%? How about 2 retired generals and an obscure religious fanatic?

EDITORIAL:

5/7/70

William Schroeder, Allison Krause, Jeffery Miller, and Sandy Lee Scheuer, these were the four unfortunate victims of a tragedy in Ohio. Yet they are not, and should not be made into martyrs; whether or not they espoused the ideals of the protest in which they became embroiled, whether or not they were active or passive in its portrayal. We should follow a simple Apache custom, speak their names now, and never dishonor them again by using them. These four are not heroes of the new left, of the anti-war campaign or any other stated cause. Their killers are not pigs, they are not mindless tools of the establishment, they are humans just like the students that stood before them. To fault the National Guard totally, to allow the militants of America to make saints of four innocent youths is to miss the point of this tragedy. No one should take sides here needlessly, no one should ascribe virtue to one faction and lunacy to the other. Yet the Weatherman will attempt to incite riots, fools will burn or destroy portions of college campuses using their deaths as an excuse, and governors will become more apprehensive--perhaps maybe more reactive--yet few will try to understand.

The youth of America is sending up one single cry--end bigotry. However the majority of Americans, young and old alike, are either too content in their hatred or too entrenched in their own campaign to see another's plight, to echo a word of understanding, to offer a hand of support. The youth of today is educated but often footloose and unsophisticated. Radical change can only create chasms over which no one can pass. Yet can anyone blame a young man for being impetuous? He can not see that by entering the world before him he can change it. Instead he desires to sweep that world away.

Then is there a key to understanding, to progress not controlled by the extremes of the arch conservatives or the "new left"? Yes, of course there is, it is education. Education of each group to the needs, wants and desires of the other. When you assail another group, when you bludgeon it with your demands, when you attack, radicalize, and destroy you accomplish one end; ALIENATION.

Look at the tactics of some of the groups trying to gain their rights today. The Blacks have formed an infrasociety and have, in many cases, drifted away from an integrated society; the protests of the anti-war groups have often resulted in wanton destruction of the very institutions that could help bring about the change they desire; the gay liberation prances down the street and creates the very impression about themselves they wish to destroy, etc. Each of these three groups, as examples, wants change, they want understanding, they want their rights. Yet the simple answer is education--only in this way can the bigotry behind each of their problems disappear. If each minority group would make an effort to educate each other group, to exchange speakers, information, time and work a first giant step would occur. For the upper echelons of most minorities, of many protest groups, and those at the very bottom of the heap know the least about their entire peer group.

How does this all relate to Kent State? Only a small fraction of the students of this University were even on the college green and only a fraction of them hurled missiles like small children that should have been spanked. This tiny fraction of mindless ruffians have given ALL college students (cf R.M. Nixon 5/1/70) a bad name. And they, like the persons and policies they protest against, are bigots. Radical, mindless, stupid bigots. They are BLINDLY hateful of "the establishment" a supposedly totally immoral, totally conscienceless mob. But because of them and because of that segment of society that is bigoted against blacks, "foreigners", homosexuals, Jews, yachts, etc. we have reached a near impasse that has finally erupted in death. (and violence--witness the "construction workers" corps)

To mourn, to cry, to call for revenge is as insane as the narrow mindlessness that led to the Kent State nightmare.

Instead a campaign of education must begin; educators, advertising agents, business groups and youth must all get together. So much non-certed effort must cease--and one vanguard must replace this scurrying about. Unification is goal number one, and a reasonable second goal is the changing of the meaning of one word--protest. This word have become bastardized to mean futility, foolishness, vulgarity, violence, indolence, malingering etc. It's synonym has come to be dissent and not its primary meaning, to assert a belief and to affirm a goal. Let us seek a positive connotation, a positive direction. page

PRESS RELKEASES

1969 BK LD #5

((Berlin)) Count vonDeoful, German war ministry commented today oh his country's invasion of Russia. "Its just a raid-all German forces will leave Russia in 6 to 8 weeks. The Turkish envoy to Berlin, Pasha Med'acid was heard to comment that the combined Russian Turkish expeditionary force would insure it.

Geneva The notorious Bridget Remangen was reported here today.
 She stated she left her post along the Rhiney deep because of an impending military clash. All I here, said she, is "to the Ruhr, March?"

Ankara The Turkish minister of supply, Caliph Ornia, announced the purchase of a secret manufacturing process. "Before," he was quoted, "we made our rifles out of plastic. Now we will fight with woodstock rifles." Local speculation ponders whether this portends aggressive moves. (sic).

Paris King Lacoue stated today in a press interview concerning the Spanish situation.

"We at the court expect that soon, our Italian friend won't over extend unwelcome visit in Spain. We do in fact, beleive to assist at the hasty departure of the Italian fleet. For the past few month Spanish citizen have been complaining of the inordinate amount of macoioni they have been fed. These has been a rash of some stomach and doctors on getting proserous in the area??" (sic)

Paris--It does seem that France and Germany common friend, Italy, as a big appetite and want's to swallow Munich, not to talk of Paris. Since we know in France that Munich is very difficult to digest we have decided to present the Italian people of doing so. We do not wish to send Spanish doctors to Italy to cure them. They still have quite a few patients to attend to in Spain. (sic??)

Marseilles--It does seem that Sultan Omar's fleet as developed a strange disease. It is called in medicine as inertia allergical onia sea. apparently a very difficult disease to cure. It is hoped here, that soon will be cured. (sic)

(ed. note) the above press releases have been reproduced as they appear. I am not drunk while typing them. If your handwriting can't be read then I'll put down what it looks like. I will not edit and correct sloppy grammar, spelling and illegible handwriting. Clean it up or I will not print it at ALL.

In response to a question let me make a general statement so as not to divulge the questioner. A support is cut if an alien power attacks the province giving support, except in the one case where the support is being given AGAINST the alien piece so attacking.

Paris: A new president has been elected? Pierre Richelieu Napoleon de Galle Foche took over the office after his near unanimous victory over George Pompy Dew. In view of difficulties among newsmen with the president's name the president asked to be addressed as President Pierre I.

England, Spring 1901

"My Goodness!" thought Alice to herself, "what is that strange creature, dressed in a waist coat and popping down a rabbit hole under the hedge?" with that she set off after it, falling down the well-like passage.

Either it was very deep, or she fell very slowly. Alice noticed that the sides of the shaft were lined with shelves and cupboards, and maps were scattered about everywhere. As she passed, Alice picked up some oddly shaped pieces of wood which were painted dark blue. Not wanting to drop them, she managed to put them back on one of the wierd maps==they landed on spaces with odd meaningless letters; Nwgs, Nos, and Edi.

8 "Who is Edi?" wondered Alice, "and what happened to the fat little thing in the waistcoat? And will I ever stop falling?"

WILL ALICE CONTINUE TO TUMBLE DOWN, DOWN DOWN FOREVER? FIND OUT IN THE FALL!

Vienna: And the vorpal sword goes snicker-snack. Ah tis brillig ((another set of orders arrived from Brenton--however they were past deadline and the game had been already resolved))

Paris Jan 2, 1902

Excerpts from King Philip XVI's annual state of the Kingdom Speech: "...unless the Austro-Hungarian Empire and the Czar stop their foolish aggression against the peaceful people of Turkey, I must instruct my diplomatic corps to break relations. If they do not heed my cry for peace, I will ask the civilized peoples of western Europe to assist me in making the world safe for monarchy!....applause."

Part VIII of the King's speech centered on the Italian aggression in southern France--) ....I wonder if the damage to good relations caused by this nonsensical attack can ever be repaired. I hope so. However any more attacks will be met by overwhelming reprisals. Let Premier Russwop send his emissaries, and an agreement and Italian reparations will be worked out...."

Part LXXXVII of the King's speech summed up the Low Country situation--) "....And it is my fervent wish that the feeling of good will now existing between Germany, England, and France shall never be shattered by any rash act. None of the three has any reason to attack any of the others, and let it be so...."

Part CXXIV gave the reason for French actions in Iberia--)...and for these reasons the attack on Spain has been moved up several months. The Spaniards, after attacking several French naval vessels innocently testing their guns near the border, massacring several French civilians, and ruthlessly overrunning the principality of Andorra, have committed the ultimate crime....the queen dared to wear the same dress as the queen of France!!....A combined Portuguese-French navy shall attack from the Mediterranean and drive to the Spanish capital while French forces detached from the Marseille army hold the border secure"

Q. What about sealed orders?

A. For each game in which you are playing you should file a set of orders that are very general in nature. I.e. giving allies, enemies basic priorities, etc. This set will be used if you ever miss a move. It is wise to update your general (sealed) orders often. In fact it is excellent policy to submit a new set in the form of orders for the very next season. This is your option however.

bronto #1 1969 BX fall 1903

Berlin: Oh, the French are gambling through the low countries as Paris falls--where is the loyalty of the French troops? That leaves only Marseilles, and I wouldn't be keeping too many bets on THAT one either. The assorted remnants of the Empire will be mopped up when the street cleaners can get around to it, I guess. Do I hear the footfalls of Giant Dunk Billed Patypus in the Wings? Isn't it coming this way? Is Glomph, Eater of Frenchman, about to make an appearance? Tune in next issue to find out.

Alas poor reader this is my last stencil! I had two more editorials on our "entrance" into Cambodia, our beloved Pres. and his superb rhetoric plus other goodies. Not the least of which is the mess in the Diplomacy Division. Oh well it shall all have to wait I suppose. I'll throw in excerpts until I run out of stencil.....

"Our recent move into Cambodia, as designed by the pentagon and/or Melvin Laird, could prove to be a stroke of military genius of the most disastrous miscalculation since the selection of Spyro as running mate for Richard Nixon. IF the goal of isolation of supplies, destruction of infiltration lines and deactivation of command into S. Viet is achieved RMN will pull his chestnuts out of the fire. He will be lauded by a large segment of our lethargic society as hero of the people and champion of the oppressed. Yet this firebrand is taking a calculated risk which would actively destroy confidence in both the executive and the military. To allow such haphazard moves by an obviously ill-advised personage is close to inane. His VP, a fop suffering from terminal megalomania, does not even have the intelligence to explain the president's decision(?) in terms other than old glory and mom's apple pie...."

"....The administration has performed like a gaggle of 4th grade hacks in their incongruous remarks and actions over the last few days. (May 7-10). ...Our movement into Cambodia had sound military logic--inspection of the facts (as supplied) do tend to demonstrate this, however the blundering manner in which this information was conveyed to the American people and the congress, plus the fumbling which Nixon has foisted off on us is totally unreal. He has set withdrawal deadlines in Cambodia which militarily are unreal and ridiculous; he has burdened his administration with a KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT "REQUEST", when in fact Agnew, et.al. read the text of their speeches anyway and then say they don't regret saying what they did; and he foolishly said he now had become an advocate of protest and that protesters are NOT "bums"...."
